What participants say

„...We master the whole value chain from design, raw material selection to the end of finishing good manufacturing. We collaborated with our textile vendors in different countries and even involved investment decisions with manufacturers in order to reduce environmental impact and moved towards digitalization. We already have direct contact with companies like ... and we are collaborating on various projects. The topic of the next webtalk is interesting for us and we would like to contact them in order to discuss in detail and find the possibility in order to collaborate.”

» Khan Mirjahan Jitu, Method Engineer, DECATHLON FRANCE

"It was a very motivating and profitable way to, in direct contact with three of the most relevant textile machinery manufacturers, follow three good interventions along with important insights. Congratulations for the initiative. I'm already waiting for the next...,
